

Light in the Well

Bring music, stories and friendship to your community

Planned for access from day one. Seating, sensory needs and ways for everyone to take part are planned from the beginning.

Led by a music therapist. Founder Dr. Yue Wu is a Neurologic Music Therapy Fellow.

We do the heavy lifting. Performers, program and planning are on us.

Our programs

Most partnerships begin with one of these. Both can be shaped to fit your space and your people.

LIVE SHOW

A Time for Light

A live, inclusive music and storytelling experience that brings people with and without disabilities together on stage and in the audience.

🕒 60–90 minutes · Schools, communities and performing arts venues

COMMUNITY GATHERING

Friendship Gatherings

Welcoming times of music, food and conversation that help people with and without disabilities move from simply being together to becoming friends.

🕒 1.5–2 hours · Small and intimate or community-wide

How it works

- 1 Contact form. Get in touch with a few details about your group and what you have in mind.
- 2 Call or email. We'll get back to you by phone or email to work out which format fits your space and budget.
- 3 Planning. We put the program and timeline together with you. Larger events need 6–12 months.
- 4 The event. We bring the performers and run the event. Afterwards, we'll check in about doing another one.

Questions & answers

Do we need a big venue or professional sound?

No. If you can offer an accessible space, enough time to plan, help with basic logistics and a real welcome for people of all abilities, we'd love to talk.

What does it cost?

It depends on the size and shape of the event. We work out together what Light in the Well covers, what the host provides, and whether sponsorship, grants or shared funding make sense.

How do you make events accessible?

Access is part of the plan from the first conversation. We talk through your space, your audience and your performers, then plan seating, sensory needs and ways for everyone to take part.

Do you travel?

Yes. We're based in Minneapolis and work with partners across the Twin Cities and the surrounding region. If you're farther away, ask anyway.

Who does what

We bring

- ✓ Program design and artistic direction
- ✓ Performers, storytellers and facilitators
- ✓ Coordination of our performers and volunteers
- ✓ An access plan: seating, sensory needs and ways to take part
- ✓ Planning support from start to finish

You bring

- ✓ An accessible space with seating and room to perform
- ✓ Basic sound and a microphone (we can help with the rest)
- ✓ A few people for welcome, ushering and setup
- ✓ Help spreading the word in your community
- ✓ Rehearsal space, if the program needs it

Past partners include MacPhail Center for Music · Landmark Center · White Bear Lake Area Schools · Greater Twin Cities Youth Symphonies · MSS

Let's dream up your event

Tell us about your community, and we'll be in touch to set up a conversation.
